During this COVID-19 pandemic, it is important to keep your mouth and nose covered when you are in a public place to help slow the spread of the virus.

If you don't have medical masks readily available to you, here is a way to make your own reusable mask using a cotton bandana and hair ties.

CDC recommends wearing cloth face coverings in public settings where other social distancing measures are difficult to maintain (e.g., grocery stores and pharmacies), especially in areas of significant community-based transmission. CDC also advises the use of simple cloth face coverings to slow the spread of the virus and help people who may have the virus and do not know it from transmitting it to others. Cloth face coverings fashioned from household items or made at home from common materials at low cost can be used as an additional, voluntary public health measure.

Cloth face coverings should not be placed on young children under age 2, anyone who has trouble breathing, or is unconscious, incapacitated or otherwise unable to remove the mask without assistance.

The cloth face coverings recommended are not surgical masks or N-95 respirators. Those are critical supplies that must continue to be reserved for healthcare workers and other medical first responders, as recommended by current CDC guidance

A simple way to fold a bandana to cover your nose and mouth.

- Lay your bandana face down on a clean, flat surface.
- Fold the top down to the center.
- Fold the bottom to the center.
- Flip the bandana over and fold the top to the center.
- Fold the bottom of the bandana to the center.
- Put hair ties on both sides of bandana.
- Fold outer sides of bandana to center, (this is the part that faces your mouth).
- Tuck one outer side into the other to hold them together.
- Pull hair ties over your ears.
- Adjust bandana to cover your nose and mouth.

What you need.
